New Paltz Holds Celebration for Returned Vets

An all-day celebration in honor of World War 2 veterans was well-attended in New Paltz Thursday when Congressman Jay McFevre delivered a dedication address at the unveiling of a memorial to the town's veterans of the second war. The dedication took place following a morning parade. An estimated 1,000 persons took part in Thursday's parade and about 4,500 watched the affair from the streets. The parade and other events throughout the day were sponsored by the Veterans' Welcome Home Committee which included the following organizations: American Legion Post of New Paltz, Fire Department, New Paltz Rod and Gun Club, Huguenot Grange and the Paltz Club. Gordon Pine was general chairman of the festivities and Mayor D. V. Z. Bogart and Frank G. Elliott, town supervisor, were honorary co-chairmen for the occasion.

The town's memorial to the war veterans is a 15-ton piece of Schwabgunk mountain stone which contains the temporary tablet of all the names of veterans. Mayor Bogart and Supervisor Elliott did the unveiling following Mr. McFevre's address. The Rev. Gerret Wulfschlegel of the Dutch Reformed Church gave the invocation. The National Anthem was played by the New Paltz High School band and at the end of the program the Rev. George B. Fagan of St. Joseph's Church pronounced the benediction.

Thursday's program continued throughout the afternoon when about 300 veterans attended a steak dinner given in their honor by the people of New Paltz. After the dinner, the veterans and approximately 800 fans witnessed a ball game between Highland and New Paltz at College Field. In a free-hitting game, Highland won out by 20 to 13.

A huge block party wound up the day's affair during the evening and the occasion attracted 3500 people.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Come Again Honolulu, July 6 (AP)—The inflation spiral backtracked in Honolulu.

Before the demise of the O.P.A. the surplus property office placed excess eggs on sale at 45 to 49 cents per dozen wholesale and 49 to 52 cents retail.

There were no buyers. In a few days the asking price had dropped to 60 cents wholesale and 35 cents retail.

A Ls Hollywood Hollywood, July 6 (AP)—Note on price controls in Hollywood, from a movie trade magazine ad:

"Circos will remain at O.P.A. ceiling prices—except imported caviar will be increased 25 cents."

Making Dough Decatur, Ill., July 6 (AP)—Elmer Keck, a mechanic for a bakery, wasn't stumped when he was unable to obtain parts for one of the company's big dough mixers.

Keck, a licensed pilot, borrowed an airplane and flew to Cincinnati, where the machine is manufactured and obtained the necessary parts.

He was back home five hours after he took off on the 600 mile trip and the bakery started its regular night production only 10 minutes late.

Pursuer Chicago, July 6 (AP)—Henry Johnson, who is 74, was in boys court—the only municipal court opened yesterday—on a charge of shoplifting.

Pleading guilty, he told Judge Joseph Drucker: "I just wanted to give a purse to my girl friend." "The next time," Judge Drucker told Johnson in imposing a sentence of 60 days in jail, "go out and buy her a purse."

Dairy Industry Is Urged to Stick To Prices on Milk

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson today urged milk producers, handlers, and others in the dairy industry to continue to hold the line on milk prices, in accordance with President Truman's request, until the price control issue is settled.

Secretary Anderson said that he would make every effort to see that the general level of returns to milk producers is maintained. Maintenance of this level is in accordance with an announcement by the economic stabilization administrator on January 29, 1946, which was re-affirmed by the Office of Economic Stabilization on April 15, and May 29, 1946.

As part of this effort, Secretary Anderson said he would urge Congress to provide funds to cover the period during which milk producers will have "held the line" pending settlement of the price control and subsidy issue.

It is estimated that for every American 241 pounds of paper products are consumed each year.

M. Reina Cited For Sales Volume

Article Appears in June Issue of Trade Magazine

The M. Reina Company, 86 Broadway, local G.E. distributor, is cited for exceptional increase in sales volume in the June issue of "Electrical Merchandising" a trade magazine.

Tracing the phenomenal growth of the local concern, the magazine article reveals that M. Reina's gross sales of approximately $35,000 in 1935, first year of the organization, were trebled in 1937. Expanding territorially with additional lines the following year the business broke through the $200,000 level. By 1941, M. Reina was rolling at a $240,000 clip.

The article points out that Kingston's population of 28,589 in 1940 represented an increase of less than 2 per cent in 10 years. The 7,656 residential electric customers in 1941 was only 7.6 per cent greater than when M. Reina first opened the store.

In fact, the magazine continues, the total of 20,036 residential electric customers in the entire country in 1941 was only 16.5 per cent higher than when Reina reported sales of $35,000—which proves the company was not riding a wave of population expansion in attaining a gross of $240,000 in a comparatively short period.

In the first full year of postwar merchandising with plentiful appliance stocks, Al Reina flatly asserts, the company will crowd $400,000 in gross sales. He is prepared to swing this volume with three specialists and half the selling staff carried in pre-war.

July Fourth Celebrated

Celebration of the Fourth of July began at flag raising at Triangle Acres Camp. At that time, Marjorie Merritt, the newly elected camp president gave a patriotic reading following the raising of the flag and the pledge to the flag. Morning swimming classes and intergroup games were carried on as usual but an outdoor supper was held at 6 o'clock. The regular campers built a fire in the outdoor fireplace and took the food out in readiness for the first picnic supper of the season.

The evening program took the form of a book party with each of the groups presenting a sketch from their book. The sketches were particularly well done and included: "Huckleberry Finn" by Frosty's Group; "Little Women" by Spash's Group; "Six Little Peppers" by Van's Group; "Peterkin" by Smitty's Group; "Junior Miss" by Stape's Group. The evening also included some of the best of July games planned by Miss Staples and Miss Van Keuren assisted from the crafts and by Miss Frost. Camp Council members for the first week are: Group 1, Carol Schutt; Group 2, Sandra Silk; Group 3, Connie Egan; Group 4, Cathie O'Reilly; Group 5, Nan Shurter.

This year the camp is offering a more varied group of interests that are being enthusiastically received by the campers. In addition to these special interest groups, swimming, of course, is one of the most popular activities of the camp. The counselor in charge of the swimming lessons and the recreational swimming is Miss Judy Fessenden.

Dr. Hugh Findlay at Ulster Garden Club

Dr. Hugh Findlay of Vassar College, formerly of Columbia University, will be the speaker at the July 9 meeting of the Ulster Garden Club, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Theodor Oxholm in Esopus. Each member of the club will have a guest privilege. Dr. Findlay will speak on the subject, "The blind can do garden."

Dr. Findlay was a collaborator in an article on the subject which appeared in a recent number of the American Home. He is the designer of ingeniously modified garden tools for the use of the blind and the article referred to gives illustrations of a number of these tools. Rakes, hoes and cultivators are equipped for attachment to a guide wire that keeps them at the proper distance from the rows of vegetables which are in use.

Dr. Findlay refused to have the tools placed on a commercial basis and with the cooperation of various groups, including the Garden Club of America, a set of the tools now is available without cost to any person or institution anywhere in the country that is working with the blind.

Luigi Silva at Woodstock Town Hall

LUIGI SILVA

The Woodstock Town Hall presentation for Sunday afternoon, July 7, at 3:15 will feature one of the great instrumentalists of our time, Luigi Silva.

Silva is a cellist whose attainments are not limited to perfect intonation, dazzling speed and accuracy and an incredible range of tone color. He is a scholar as well, probably the most original and profound of scholars of cello literature. This propensity together with his mastery of the cello is governed by an unusually modest and unassuming attitude. His work on the cello which is nearing completion promises to be the most comprehensive yet written and will make all other methods obsolete.

Mr. Silva's program will feature the Beethoven Concerto in D major, a work which Mr. Silva discovered in the Library of Congress. A fine sense of program balance is indicated in the choice of another work, an Andante and Allegro by Paul White, the well-known American composer.

The Woodstock String Sinfonietta which will accompany Mr. Silva will be conducted by Andre Polak, conductor of the American Lyric Theatre and the Syracuse Symphony Orchestra. The choice of Mr. Polak is a happy one for he is equally at home with antique and modern music.

MUSIC AT WEDDING IN GARDEN

To one who asks: "Is music ever provided at a garden wedding? And if so, how and what could it be?"

The answer is that music is not only customary but just as necessary as it is elsewhere. Of course, it can be furnished by a phonograph, for which beautiful records of church music are to be had for the professional as well as for the waiting time before the service and popular dance music afterwards.

Behave-As-You-Please Attitude

Dear Mrs. Post: At the request of my son I invited a young woman friend of his in to tea one afternoon. I wrote her a note and she accepted by note. Just before I expected them that day, my son telephoned and said her parents had arrived in town and she could not come. Incidentally, her parents live less than 25 miles from the city! I have heard nothing from this young woman since. Shouldn't she have telephoned me or at least followed up my son's call with a note or telephone call of apology, later?

Answer: Yes, she should have! In other words, her behavior illustrates the present-day behave-as-you-please attitude which makes many of us criticize the youngest generation.

Engraved Need Not Indicate Quantity

Dear Mrs. Post: I am being married in another state, in the house of friends. I have been wondering, since the wedding is not to be in church but in a very permissible to send engraved invitations to everyone. There will be comparatively few people at the wedding, but there are many relatives and friends living all over the country to whom we want to send invitations.

Answer: An invitation that is engraved or printed in simulation of engraving is absolutely correct for no matter how small a wedding.

Perfume for Youth

Dear Mrs. Post: What kind, if any, of perfume would it be proper to let my young daughter use? She is only 13.

Answer: The fragrance of all garden flowers, but no Eastern extracts!

Is the title of "Mrs." ever used on an engraved wedding invitation? The answer is found in Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Engraved (Wed. Divorce)" obtainable for a cent.

Clarence Derwent Governor Orders To Be in 'Drums'

Distinguished Actor Will Be Featured at Playhouse

CLARENCE DERWENT

During the week of July 9, one of the most distinguished actors in America, Clarence Derwent, will appear at the Woodstock Playhouse, Woodstock, in the premiere of a new topical play, "Drums of Peace."

Others in the cast of "Drums of Peace" include Houston Richards, Alexander Ivo, Robert Alvin, Virginia Downing and members of the resident company. The play has been directed by Mary Morris, and will run through July 14.

Dealing with the American occupation of Germany at the present time, "Drums of Peace" was written by Edward Mabley and Leonard Mins. Mr. Mabley is a well known radio writer for C.B.S. and director for N.B.C. Mr. Mins, an electrical engineer, is the translator of the plays of Friedrich Wolf. The two men met while engaged on a confidential project for the navy during the war. Both of them have recently been decorated for this work. "Drums of Peace," their first original play for the legitimate stage, examines some of the problems which face the United States in Germany today.

Clarence Derwent, British by birth, is the newly elected president of Actors' Equity Association, taking office only last month. He is the founder of the Clarence Derwent Acting Awards, which are given annually to the actor and actress who in the opinion of the judges have done the finest work in supporting roles on Broadway each year.

Mr. Derwent began his career with the Theatre Guild repertory company, and with Sir Herbert Tree in "Henry VIII." America first saw him with Grace George as Stephen Underdunk in "Shaw's Major Barbara," and in the same role in the dramatic "Captain Brassbound's Conversion." Present among his later appearances were those with Laurette Taylor in "Pierrot the Prodigal," as King Louis in "The Three Musketeers," with Dennis King, with Frank Morgan in "Topaze," with Katherine Cornell in "The Doctor's Dilemma," and with the Lunts as the Viceroy in "The Pirate." Abroad he has been starred as Shylock in the State Theatres of Belgium and Holland. Up to a few weeks ago he has been delighting audiences as the Honorable Tchong in "Lute Song."

A director as well as an actor, Mr. Derwent lists "Rebecca," "Lady Precious Stream" and "Mademoiselle" among the productions he has staged.

Tons of Red Cross Supplies Arrive At Shanghai Port

Washington, D. C.—Arrival of several tons of American Red Cross chapter-produced clothing at Shanghai last week in June was announced today by Basil O'Connor, national chairman. Distribution to needy Chinese will begin immediately, he said, under the supervision of James P. Moody, Arlington, Va., now in China as director of the Red Cross overseas emergency program there.

In addition, nearly four million dollars' worth of medical supplies is currently being distributed by the American Red Cross in China in a continuing relief program which has exceeded more than $100,000,000 worth of supplies since the beginning of World War 2.

Sixty per cent of the clothing, Mr. O'Connor stated, will be distributed to hospitals, orphanages, and other public institutions. The remainder will be distributed through the Chinese Red Cross to needy individuals in their chapter areas, through the National Student Relief Committee to refugees and students, and through the China Welfare Fund Committee to the children of working mothers, cared for in the committee's nurseries.

Among the 200,000 garments now at Shanghai are baby blankets, children's rompers, boys' trousers, demitasse, children's pajamas, girls' and women's dresses. The current Red Cross shipment is valued at $200,000, Moody said, and other shipments are expected in the near future.

The medical supply program has already benefited more than 27,000,000 Chinese, according to a late Red Cross report.

Governor Orders Review of Case

and report on the legal proceedings, or matters directly connected therewith, taken to establish the culpability of any person or persons in the fatal shooting of Charles and Alphonse Ferguson.

Romeika arrested the pair and their two brothers, Joseph and Richard Ferguson, following an alleged disturbance at a Freepart restaurant on the night of February 1-3.

He said at the time that he had asked the men to leave the restaurant and had arrested them later when he found them breaking a window at a nearby fuel company office.

Charles and Alphonse were shot fatally and Joseph was wounded in the shoulder by two shots after they had been arrested and lined against a wall with their hands raised, Gehrig said in his reply to the governor.

Why He Fired

Gehrig said Romeika fired first when Charles Ferguson declared he had a revolver and made a movement which the patrolman believed an attempt to draw a gun. He fired a second shot which pierced Joseph's shoulder and struck Alphonse in the head when the latter, Gehrig added, also made a motion which Romeika regarded as an intention to wrest the officer's gun from him.

Later the same day, Richard was found guilty of disorderly conduct and sentenced to 100 days in jail or payment of a $100 fine. His conviction later was reversed and the charge was dismissed by Nassau County Judge Henry J. A. Collins.

Charles Ferguson was in the army. Joseph in the navy. Richard was a veteran and Alphonse a civilian at the time of the shooting.

Greenbaum's investigation, the governor's office said, would be conducted "solely to assist the governor in the determination of a petition signed by Adele G. Smith, Ruth Hughes and Richard Sanders, all of Freepart.

Gehrig's Answer

Gehrig, in answer to the petition told the governor:

"Satisfied as I am that justice was promptly and unqualifiedly served in this case, I regret that proof had been covered necessarily by the rule of secrecy relating to grand jury proceedings."

"Because a few organizations which have interested themselves in this case for a variety of motives have injected the unfortunate racial implications into this matter, I believe it would be highly desirable to have the competent and relevant testimony developed publicly. x x x"

The governor's announcement said that Greenbaum was empowered to "make such disclosure of evidence as may in his judgment and discretion be in the public interest."

The petitioners claimed that Gehrig "took offense" at interest in the case "displayed by the citizenry" and expressed his "personal bias and anger, thereby preventing him from properly and fairly presenting the material issues to the grand jury."

Attached to the petition was a newspaper (Hempstead Newsday) report of alleged Ku Klux Klan revival activities in the area. Dewey was requested to inaugurate a state investigation of the sources of the report.

Gehrig told the governor he had found "no factual basis of any revival of the Ku Klux Klan in Nassau county."

A GARDEN laid out on different levels requires steps and if these steps are built of stone, natural or otherwise, a rock garden can be built around them.

To soften and create interest about stone garden steps, small plants of certain varieties can be used. Plants used as "stepping stones," however, should be hardy and remain dwarfed in height, so that they will not prove cumbersome underneath when walked upon.

Suggestions for plants to be used for this purpose, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, are: Androsace hectori, which is moss-like and forms mats of small bronze-green foliage. Herniaria labra is also recommended for similar use, as illustrated.

Another plant which makes a good "stepping stone" is Androsace repens, which will stand a lot of walking upon without damage. Golden Moss and the various Thymus also are ideal for this purpose, and these when walked upon give off a fragrant odor.

In building a rock garden on a slope, use field stones, as illustrated. Do not space them at exact intervals since this tends to give a monotonous effect. Irregularity lends more interest by forming large as well as small soil pockets for planting purposes, as illustrated.

Always remember to lay the rocks with the soil, as illustrated. This allows the rain to drain back and downwards into the plant's roots.

Maintenance of a rock garden is simplified when the rocks are firmly planted. This enables one to step about on them to weed, plant

A story is being told about a local man who had a bright idea for straightening the bent radiator grill of his car. He secured a rope and tied the grill to a tree. Then he backed the car gently and the grill pulled back into shape. Then he forgot to take the rope off and started to drive off, pulling out the entire grille.

Reciprocity
When the mailman seldom comes to your door (except to bring bills) as he did of yore, the inference tends to make you blue—Your good old friends have forgotten you. How eager you wait for an envelope. That bears the handwriting of kindred folk. Or the postmark of towns that would make your heart leap. The memory towns that you visit in sleep! You sadly lament and pity yourself. Convinced you are worthless goods on the shelf. Then suddenly you wake up with a start. To the fact you, yourself, are not doing your part. Get busy and write to your old friend, Joe. And the other old pals you used to know. And the postman will brighten your life once more— I tried it, and letters came in by the score.

Oil Use Studied

Norwegians believe that refined cod-liver oil may be used as a substitute for linseed oil in paint products. Having a large cod-liver oil surplus and being faced with the competition of new vitamin preparations developed during the war, they are suggesting that the vitamin content be removed from the oil and prepared in "easy-to-take" form and the remaining product used as a substitute for linseed oil. Oslo reported Norway hitherto has imported large quantities of linseed oil.

50 Kingston Elks
Will Attend Big
N. Y. Convention

Approximately 50 members of Kingston Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will attend the 82nd meeting of the Grand Lodge in New York city from July 6 to 11. It was announced today by Exalted Ruler Raymond Schuler.

The Kingston delegation will be part of the 10,000 Elks taking part in the first convention since removal of wartime travel restrictions. The main order of business is to be planning for the use of the order's welfare funds and for scheduling of the next year's charitable and benevolent activities. Officers will be elected too.

A highlight of the convention will be a pageant and parade on upper Fifth avenue, Thursday afternoon, July 11, which will feature uniformed marchers, a number of bands and many elaborate floats.

A vast, nationwide welfare organization with more than 800,000 members and no political, commercial or religious angles, the Elks have spent more than $70,000,000 since the founding of the order in contributions to the public welfare.

Among the recent activities of the Elks are entertainment and gifts to veterans in 300 hospitals in 42 states, donation of a million books to the merchant marine, recruiting of thousands of Navy Seabees, and Veterans Administration nurses, army engineers and air cadets, the maintenance of armed force recreational facilities in 450 fraternal centers in 37 states, Elks hospitals and maintenance of scholarship funds for deserving students.

More than half the membership of congress belongs to the Elks as do 33 state governors and President Harry S. Truman.

Leaves From Boyle's
Notebook

(This is the second of a series of columns written for Hal Boyle by representative Germans, expressing their own uncensored views of their nation's future. Today a middle-class fraulein tells of her problems in the occupied Reich.)

Berlin, July 6 (AP)—I am a fraulein 23 years old, fairly good looking, and still with high hopes in my mind—because I hope this world will someday come to an understanding.

Let me make the silly attempt to talk to the outside world, as one of the million different types of German girls.

Trouble nowadays consists of two different groups. We are, as German girls, involved with the problem of national hardship and the fear of what will become of our country in the future. Besides that political problem, we have our own little girl problems starting with "fraternization"—whether or not to have an American boy friend—and ending with your very same trouble: Is there no way to get a pair of stockings?

But there is this difference: We don't worry about nylon. They are nothing but a fairy tale to us anyway.

I have a deep, deep feeling for my country. For all the bad things which were done under Hitler it is still the nation of Luther, Kant, Beethoven, Bach, Duerer and Wagner.

Politically, I don't take much difference between the British and the Americans in their attitude toward Germany.

I don't understand their policy. I don't agree with their future plans for Germany. To start with the main trouble: Why do they keep us at war after one year of Allied victory? What is the use of talking so much about "democracy" and reconstruction if there is not the principal basis for it: Peace. I feel they should not restrict us too much. Let Germany get running again—have its industries working again first—and then take the reparations you and other countries desire.

There is a lot more to say about that subject. These ideas come up every day but they are certainly not the only problems girls like me are worrying about.

I am just in the marriage age. I wonder whether I will ever find the right husband. From the newspapers I learn that there are seven girls to every man in Berlin. Luck guy, but I certainly don't want to share my boy friend or future husband with six other girls.

Generally speaking, I am very much in favor of American-German marriages. I consider this a very lucky solution for the poor girls who otherwise would have to stay single all their lives. Why don't they lift the marriage ban on German frauleins? I would marry an American. I feel I am marrying the man and not his nationality. If I love him I don't care what nation he belongs to, and I will follow him wherever he has to go.

In a way I am a very ordinary girl. I like to go out and do all the things you cannot do now—if you are a German. The things you cannot do for many reasons, for lack of money, restrictions, of limits signs and many other barriers.

I hate to run around improperly dressed in shabby shoes and worn-out clothes. If there is no other way I even go to the black market. I sold my portable typewriter for a carton of cigarettes. I sold the cigarettes to some "big time operator" and then paid 1,600 marks for a pair of shoes.

When you go shopping, you meet all the daily problems combined. You have to take egg powder instead of meat and when you ask for your sugar ration you have to take crackers because they don't have sugar. You pass up the vegetable store because the queue there is so long you decide you would lose more calories standing in line than you get from the vegetables.

I have American friends. I have German friends. I know British and French people.

They treat me as a lady—not a Kraut. I am very grateful toward my American friends because they make me forget my daily troubles for a little while. They have made me curious about the states.

One thing I know—I will go there and see the country and the people as soon as I have a chance.

I wish also many Americans would have the desire to come here and find out that there is also something nice about our country.

computation was only approximately indicated the probability that pilots in the planes in the cloud would have been killed. Pilots close to the cloud would have been risking their lives. Radar shot at the atomic explosion and afterward at the atomic cloud behaved unexpectedly. Radar beams bounced back off the explosion. No such thing had been expected. The probable explanation is that radar bounced back off the edges of the bubble of compressed air that formed the source of the shock wave of the explosion.

Radar failed completely to bounce back off the atomic cloud. It had been confidently expected that radar would be able to track the atomic cloud. The explanation of this failure is that this cloud contained much less vaporized metal than had been anticipated.

Norah Has Meeting With Thompson

Mother and Children Meet
Pittsburgher in Queens

New York, July 6 (AP)—It was much the same as many another reunion after long separation—joyful but poignant, tearful yet heart-warming. It was a climactic part of a two-year-old drama that touched heartstrings around the world.

A taxi sped up to a little terrace house in Elmhurst, Queens. A man raced from the house to the cab.

With a stifled sob, travel-worn, anxious Norah Rose Carpenter sprang from the taxi into the arms of William (Red) Thompson.

Around them gathered the three tiny tots whose birth with a little brother who died shortly afterwards, created a sensation in February, 1944.

Norah had come from the little mining town of Hearn, Derbyshire, England, to marry Thompson, of Pittsburgh, Pa., the father of her children, and to make a new home in this country.

For 15 months, Thompson, a former G. I. who met Norah while he served in England and who, after the birth of the quads, acknowledged his paternity, and awaited the arrival of the mother and children, Maureen, Madeline and Michael. His first wife divorced him during that time.

Norah and the children arrived yesterday, aboard a giant transatlantic plane from London. Thompson didn't go to the airport to meet them, but his attorney and a relative did.

He wanted the reunion to be a private one and so it was—save for a reporter for the New York Mirror, which said it had made the arrangements to bring the father, mother and children together again. The newspaper described their meeting in copy-righted stories.

As the 25-year-old Norah, her eyes filling with tears, embraced Thompson, 28, she exclaimed: "My darling, I'm so happy to see you again."

Thompson, taut with emotion, could say only "hello." Then he knelt to greet his three children. Maureen looked at him and said "Daddy."

Later they all went to the Mayflower Hotel, at which a suite had been reserved for Norah and the tots.

Tuesday the mother and father will be married in Pittsburgh, where Thompson is employed as a pressman with a printing firm.

Martocci Fines Man $100,
Waives Jail Term

Sam Astolas, Jr., 35, of Route 1, Kingston, pleaded guilty to the charge of accepting bets on the horse races when arraigned before Special City Judge Francis Martocci in police court yesterday.

He was fined $100 which he paid, and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, but the serving of the jail sentence was suspended.

Astolas was arrested June 11 in a raid on a "horse room" at 650 Broadway by Chief of Police Ernest A. Boss and Detectives Wesley Cramer and Clarence Brophy.

In the raid the police seized $534.50 which they found in the "horse room." Yesterday Astolas proved that $300 of the money seized was his own, and the court directed that it be turned over to him, and that the remaining $234.50 be forwarded to the state as required by the state law.

Attorney Charles Gaffney represented Astolas in court while the district attorney's office was represented by Attorney James G. Connelly.

Selective Service Board Member to Run for Congress

James K. Welsh of Chester, member of the Goshen Draft Board and a veteran of World Wars 1 and 2, is the organization candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 29th Congressional District. Announcement to this effect was made Wednesday afternoon by Thomas J. V. Cullen, Orange county Democratic chairman. Mr. Cullen, at the same time, named William Hancock of Monroe as the Democratic candidate for state senator.

The announcement followed conferences participated in by Mr. Cullen and the other Democratic chairmen of the 29th Congressional district—William R. Schaffer of Sullivan, Murray Thompson of Rockland and Ralph Williams of Delaware.

Will Oppose Senator Wicks

Also that was disclosed Wednesday that Mr. Schafer, the Sullivan county chairman, had agreed to run for the Democratic nomination for State Senator in the Sullivan-Ulster-Delaware-Greene district long represented by Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, Republican.

Mr. Welsh will oppose the winner of the Primary fight involving Mrs. Katharine St. George, Orange County Republican chairman and endorsed candidate of the Orange County Republican Committee, and Augustus W. Bennett of Newburgh, the incumbent Congressman who was elected two years ago with Democratic backing. Mr. Hancock will oppose Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh, who now holds the post of State Senator and is without opposition for re-nomination in the primary.

THE CAMERA CORNER

How To Shoot Pet Pictures

Of course you want to photograph pets. They are one of the best possible subjects for the amateur—and his ego. They don't talk back. Almost without exception, they are photogenic. And they don't look at the finished print and say: "Good heavens, do I look as awful as that?"

Unless you are the type that keeps a little box constrictor in the home, most of your shots will be of cats and dogs. First of all, remember that fur absorbs light. The darker the fur, the more light it absorbs and the more light you will need on the animal.

For this reason, it is usually better to shoot indoors. The subject is more limited in movement, there are fewer smells to investigate and you will be more sure of the results of your lighting.

Keep Background Plain

Make your background plain and make it contrast as much as possible with the light values of the subject. A blanket or a sheet is always handy to hang in the background.

As for equipment, a camera, tripod and flashlight arrangement are called for. If you have a synchronized flash equipment, you won't need the tripod. In that case use a fast film and a speed of at least 1/100 to stop motion.

Wherever possible, use cross lighting to knock out the background shadow and give full modeling and texture to the subject. However, if a good opportunity presents itself, don't waste time setting up equipment. Some of the best animal photographs have been taken with a single flash off the camera. This is one branch of photography where you can violate the rules and still get a good picture. An animal can usually hold his own in the center of interest regardless of lighting and composition.

But don't let that keep you from shooting for perfection.

Cats Are Individualists

Dogs are easier to pose than cats. A cat is the original rugged individualist. You will find your pet shooting the picture the way cats shoot, or not at all. You can trick them, or however. Arrange your props so that they will have to come through a certain opening. Focus on that spot. Or place them on a small table or chair. You will usually have a couple of seconds before they decide which way to jump.

What you want in pet photography is interesting composition and typical poses—not "esthetic masterpieces. All you need is patience, ingenuity and a fair share of luck.

Recreation News

This year a new activity has been added to the recreation program in the parks of the city. Alex S. Fuhrman, a man interested in children for many years, is spending some time in each park teaching the children wood work, handicraft and art.

During the past week, Mr. Fuhrman visited many of the parks and the children have responded to his appeal for interest in this work. In Cornell Park 45 children the other day worked very earnestly under his direction. In Forsyth Park many kites were made on Friday when Mr. Fuhrman visited the park.

All children interested in this form of work are asked to consult the directors on their neighborhood parks who will be very happy to tell the boys and girls when Mr. Fuhrman will be again in the park.

The third week of the Y.M.C.A. Day Camp at DeWitt Lake will open Monday with a registration of 140 boys and girls, which will establish a record in attendance for any week of the four seasons the camp has been held.

The winners in the various events will be awarded their camp "Y" emblem, as well as first, second and third place ribbons, all of which have the Day Camp inscription embossed in gold.

For the first day at camp during the noon rest hour Boys' Work Secretary Corell will have charge of the story telling hour.

Tuesday and Wednesday the athletic events will be held, while Thursday is Hot Dog Day. Friday will be party day at the camp.

Forbidden Trees

Poplar trees are forbidden in New York city because their roots go so deep that they can disrupt water and sewage systems.

PICTURE OF THE WEEK: A simple but very effective still life composition. Notice how the curves formed by the lilies and pads add interest and balance to the composition. Always avoid straight vertical and horizontal lines in your pictures. Made on superpan press film. Exposure: 1/50 second at f 16. Natural sunlight with no filter.

1. The best outdoor pictures I have seen have clouds in the sky but my pictures do not show them. How can I get clouds in my snapshots?

ANSWER: The use of a medium yellow filter will assist you in securing the cloud effect you want. For a slightly darkened sky with fleecy clouds use a yellow filter; for a darker sky with strongly contrasting clouds, use an orange or red filter. The filter brings out cloud images through holding back the strong blue light from the sky.

2. How long should an amateur know more about my hobby, camera club? I would like to take pictures before joining a club but I feel that I don't know enough yet to ask intelligent questions.

ANSWER: The best time for you to join a camera club is right now. You will find your fellow enthusiasts eager to assist you with your photographic problems. Photographers are better talkers than listeners and you will discover that you will learn much from them.

Frank V. Kelly Dies in New York, Brooklyn Leader

New York, July 6 (AP)—Frank V. Kelly, 67, Brooklyn Democratic chief for more than a decade and one of the party's most powerful leaders in New York state, died yesterday following a two-year illness.

He had been hospitalized since June 8 when he was stricken with a cerebral thrombosis. Kelly was a steadfast supporter of the late President Roosevelt, for whom he brought large pluralities in 1936, 1940, and 1944 campaigns, and was a frequent visitor at the White House.

He led his delegation in support of Harry S. Truman for the vice presidential nomination at the last Democratic national convention in Chicago.

Kelly had been Kings county Democratic leader since 1934, but his political work began many years before—shortly after the turn of the century when he and a group of friends organized a club which subsequently became the regular Democratic organization of the Fourth Brooklyn Assembly District.

He helped Mayor William O'Dwyer by drafting him in 1939 to run for Kings county district attorney and later helped bring about O'Dwyer's nomination for mayor.

Upon learning of Kelly's death, O'Dwyer, vacationing in California, announced he would end his stay there and return home today.

269 Deaths Are Reported in Nation As Holiday Wanes

(By The Associated Press)

The death toll from violent causes as the nation celebrated an extended Fourth of July weekend holiday inched toward the 300 mark today.

With millions swarming bathing beaches and on the highways, the bulk of the violent deaths resulted from traffic accidents and drownings.

Since 6 p. m. (local time) Wednesday until early today, at least 269 persons had suffered violent deaths.

Today's survey showed 122 persons had been killed in accidents on the highways; 79 had drowned and 68 others died from miscellaneous causes.

In 1941 when the nation observed a three-day Independence Day holiday 608 persons suffered violent deaths.

Only six states—Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island—reported a clean slate of violent deaths in the first two days. New York and Michigan led all states, each with a total of 23.

son of any friction between it and other agencies. I trust that the case can be considered at an early date.

One portion of the transcript quoted Slezak as saying that Patterson had "covered himself" and "put the rest of us in the soup."

As Slezak and other officers placed together the difficulties they said they encountered in dealing with Garsson and his associates "who constantly went over our heads." Chairman Mead declared they constituted "an illustration of the evil effects of meddling in the War Department activities."

In 1890 Mother Cabrini established her American novitiate at Park, N. Y. Hospitals, orphanages and schools were the center of her service.

This report was adopted by a vote of 6 to 4, while a minority report submitted by Alderman Sammons, the Republican member of the committee, recommending that the question of installation of meters be referred to the voters at a referendum to be held in the fall, was filed.

The committee was also authorized by a resolution, adopted by a vote of 4 to 3, to instruct the corporation counsel to draft an ordinance permitting meter installation, and also to solicit bids from the manufacturers of parking meters.

It was the fifth auto fatality of the year in Yonkers and the 40th in Westchester county. Police said O'Connell was crossing the street when he lost his footing and fell. Boy Is Blamed

Warsaw, July 6 (AP)—An eight-year-old boy, who said "someone" told him to start a story that Jews had held him for several days in a cellar, was blamed by investigators today for touching off Poland's bloodiest post-war pogrom, which killed at least 38 and injured 50 others in the city of Kielce. A special commission of inquiry said the boy, Heinrich Blaszyk, told the story to militiamen, adding that his life had been threatened and that he had seen at least a dozen bodies of Christian children in his prison.

Senators Count on Drive To Crack Compromise Bill

Washington, July 6 (AP)—O.P.A.'s senatorial critics counted today on a powerful off-with-meetings drive to crack open the compromise bill to revive price and rent controls.

Spearheaded by Republican Senators Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, this fresh attempt to tie down O.P.A., even if it wins new life, gained the influential support of Democratic Senator George of Georgia.

George told reporters he favors leaving meat off of the lists because he thinks most of it would go back into the black market the minute controls were restored.

"We are going to have a meat shortage," he declared, "but it is better to get rid of the controls and the black market that goes with them than to attempt to set prices."

With the Senate in recess until Monday when it will take up the disputed revival bill Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), forced out of the banking committee, O.P.A.'s opponents maneuvered to force the first test vote on the meat issue.

Taft said he felt confident enough Democrats would go along with Republicans to write the meat exemption into the bill despite contentions by administration leaders that such a move might precipitate another Presidential veto.

Wherry told a reporter it is his judgment that if the Senate refuses to accept any other amendments to the bill on which Barkley is standing firm despite criticism of some of its terms by O.P.A. Administrator Paul Porter.

Barkley and Chairman Wagner (D-N.Y.), of the Banking Committee expressed hope that the Senate will stick by the committee-approved measure. But they obviously had doubts about their ability to beat off the meat amendment, offered in different forms by Wherry and Senator McCarran (D-Nev.).

Wagner, Barkley Lay Plans
Wagner and Barkley apparently were laying plans to get rid of it a Senate-House Conference Committee. That strategy worked before but a resulting bill was so distasteful to President Truman that he vetoed it.

Barkley and Chairman Wagner (D-N.Y.), of the Banking Committee expressed hope that the Senate will stick by the committee-approved measure. But they obviously had doubts about their ability to beat off the meat amendment, offered in different forms by Wherry and Senator McCarran (D-Nev.).

Wagner, Barkley Lay Plans
Wagner and Barkley apparently were laying plans to get rid of it a Senate-House Conference Committee. That strategy worked before but a resulting bill was so distasteful to President Truman that he vetoed it.

The drive against meat controls too precedence over an effort by Taft to restore a modified version of his manufacturers' profits amendment which Mr. Truman made the major basis of his veto.

Taft offered this identical amendment again with a change in the date. He proposed that individual manufacturers be granted price increases on major items to cover cost rises since the period of July 1 to 15, 1940. Originally he had proposed October 1 to 15, 1941, and Mr. Truman complained this was a period of unusually high prices for industry.

The Ohio senator's new version represented a backing away from his earlier compromise position when he agreed to accept a formula under which prices increases would be figured on the industry-wide—rather than item by item—average, plus the industry-wide rise in costs.

Barkley put such a formula into the committee substitute for the Taft proposal, but Taft said additional exemption provisions were such that the price administrator wouldn't have to grant any increases if he chose to refuse them.

Democrats thought they had Taft's new proposal licked and hence were spending more time trying to line up votes against the drive.

Biggest Firemen's Parade In 20 Years for Port
It is estimated by the police that more than 10,000 people lined the streets of Port Jervis July 4 for the largest fireman's parade the city has seen in 20 years. There were 65 fire companies, auxiliaries and bands present from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The parade, a mile long, took an hour to pass a given point.

After the parade home fire companies entertained their individual guests—and those who have attended a Port Jervis firemen's parade will know that they were well entertained.

The Doodledorfer Band from Kingston took part in the festivities.

Excelsior Hose Meeting
A special meeting of Excelsior Hose Company will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock. All members who anticipate participating in the parade this month are requested to attend the meeting and draw equipment.

Mrs. Carbone Is Wed to Captain

Takes Officer for Husband After Reno Divorce

Reno, Nev., July 6 (AP)—Mrs. Jean Pauline Carbone, 19-year-old British war bride, who won a bitterly contested divorce yesterday from former Army Lt. Harold Carbone of Rochester, N. Y., was married late last night to Capt. Darrell A. Beschen, at whose Dubuque, Iowa, home her baby was born last February.

The quiet ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Harry Dunseath, little more than five hours after she received her divorce decree on grounds of mental cruelty.

Carbone had protracted his wife's divorce action, accusing her of adultery. He named the 24-year-old Beschen as correspondent.

Beschen flew here on a four-day leave from Shreveport, La., Thursday, but his presence was not publicly disclosed until last night. The couple left immediately for an undisclosed destination.

John Robb Clarke, attorney who won Mrs. Carbone the contested decree, an Ohio daughter, movie starlet Reno Brown, served as witnesses at the wedding.

Mrs. Carbone's son was born last February 9, more than 13 months after she and Carbone had parted in London. The Carbone was married there in 1944 while he was on duty in England.

Carbone, who had told interviewers that he contested the divorce for religious reasons, said after the decree was granted: "I'm not bitter about it—at least, I'm free."

Attorneys for the principals said that Carbone testified he sent his wife $2,400 from the time he left England until she arrived in this country.

Instead of joining Carbone upon her arrival she went to Beschen's home in Iowa, and at the time of the child's birth Beschen said it was his son.

After the trial Mrs. Carbone said in an interview that when she came to this country she had "every intention" to join her husband but that upon her arrival she telephoned him and he told her: "No, I don't want you."
